AH! I'm in Christmas trouble being chased by T people see what happens. After a tough days of school I went to the classroom before I got their my friends and I saw a colorful backpack in the way. We tried to push it over but we could not budge it then all of use started to take stuff out of it. When half the stuff was thrown out then the bag was sucking us in. We landed in a jungle I tried to look for my friends but survived that was M, N and me. All the others died because they didn't follow my lead they died because they burned up in the atmosphere. A tough days later we found a village they were offering sacrifices to Kong lord of the earth they say. After the ceremony we went to the witch doctor and asked him if he knew anything about a backpack he said yes he zoomed us back home but before that we were chased out of the village because they thought we were evil spirits. When we got back we put the backpack and all the stuff in a time capsule and know no one ever saw it again.

Score Point: 3

This response reflects a limited degree of proficiency in narrative writing skills. The writer organizes a sequence of events and provides some detail to illustrate key ideas. There is adequate development. The writer employs appropriate word choice. However, a pattern and accumulation of errors in mechanics and sentence structure cause confusion for the reader. These errors prevent the response from earning a higher score.
